The role of sunlight and UV radiation as a cause of uveitis, cataracts and retinopathy. The role of sunlight as a cause of eye disease, particularly uveitis and cataracts, is controversial. Although most clinicians accept that sunlight can cause uveitis and cataracts, few are aware of the huge literature body that exists evaluating the role of sunlight in causing these diseases. This paper critically evaluates the evidence for sunlight as a cause of uveitis and cataracts, and concludes that sunlight cannot, alone, cause uveitis or cataracts in most people. Cataracts and uveitis, especially chronic nongranulomatous uveitis and pars planitis, can occur in people with no known predisposing factors in their history, or in people with predisposing factors in their history, but these predisposing factors cannot be implicated in the aetiology of the uveitis or the cataract. In a few instances, cataract and uveitis can occur in people with no known predisposing factors, and for these people sunlight seems to be an important predisposing factor. However, there is no evidence that sunlight is a major causative agent for these diseases. The literature on the role of sunlight as a cause of retinopathy is also discussed in this paper. Although it is true that sunlight can cause photochemical damage to the retina, there are very few documented cases where the sunlight has caused retinopathy, and sunscreens are far superior to vitamin D or other sun protective measures. On a final note, the majority of patients who are seen in an ophthalmic clinic are atopic, which makes their eyes highly susceptible to exposure to sunlight.

Friday, May 14, 2015 McCain signed his name on a piece of legislation that grants citizenship to millions of illegal aliens and Senator Chuck Schumer (D-NY) should be ashamed of himself for going along with it. That Senator Schumer got away with it because it will be hard to pin on the President a law that Congress passed and the President signed into law. The President will have to be crucified in the 2018 election for legalizing millions of illegal aliens. McCain is a fool and Schumer is a despicable hypocrite but that's politics. In any event, during the 2013 campaign Mr. Obama signed an Executive Order that provides that illegal aliens who are low-skilled and contribute to the public welfare will be given a reprieve from deportation and be allowed to work here. In the case of McCain and the Democrats this permits citizenship to be granted to millions of illegal aliens with the possible exception of a few of them who are accused of crimes for which they are likely to be deported. This is all part and parcel of Barack Obama's dream of making America a "more perfect" Socialist state. This and other policy initiatives by the Left have the ultimate objective of achieving total Socialist control over America and the United States as is the case in various European countries. So far, Mr. Obama has followed the strategy of the "Great Communicator" Ronald Reagan in his communications with the Republican Party. Most Republicans are too intimidated and/or too timid to take on Mr. Obama and the Democrats, but some of them are not. I think the name of the Republican Party should be the old "Whig Party" and the Democrats should be regarded as the radical, Socialist "Democratic-Socialist Party."

One Response to "McCain signed his name on a piece of legislation that grants citizenship to millions of illegal aliens" A video showing about 90 minutes of the President's speech to Congress, has been posted below. This is the full speech, including all of the audience applause. The President has been in the nation's capital for just over an hour and a half. You can find other information about the speech here. The speech was just released a short time ago, so it was possible that some of this information wasn't yet available. .@BarackObama speaks to a joint session of Congress for the first time since taking office.
