“Controlled” in Free Movement mode and “Free” in Learning mode. “Controlled” in Free Movement mode and “Free” in Learning mode. The Star Legation game is for ages 10+. Two people are the best, but you can play solo with sound effects (optional). Use the “Controlled” movement mode to find your way, while the “Free” movement mode lets you choose your own path. Choose the “Controlled” game mode for the challenge of the game, or use “Free” game mode in the “learning mode” to practice or become a better gamer. Have you ever played a game or watched a movie where you were on a mysterious new planet? Then you have experienced the world of The Star Legation game. The game features high-quality graphics, action, suspense, and mystery. The Star Legation - Gameplay: Game Modes*: Learning Mode (for solo players) and Free Movement Mode (for players with a friend). Learning Mode: in learning mode, you will play as a new character, who must explore the planet by searching for a new, alien race. You will encounter new weapons (for now), and can use them to fight your enemies. There is no set path to take, and you will be able to select a different dialogue path depending on what you find on the planet. As you play, you will learn more about the planet and its people, while overcoming a series of challenges, until your search for the alien leader is complete. Free Movement Mode: in free movement, you can have a friend with you, or play solo and be the game's hero. The game is open world, so there is no set path, and you can go where you want. Depending on the situation, you can engage in dialogue with different aliens, use new weapons, and learn new things about the planet. * Learning Mode: includes a gaming tutorial to help new players learn

Size: 1,8 GB Game complexity: medium Visuals: beautiful Updates: once a month Players: 1-4 Summary: 1. A hitbox mistake: Most likely you have touched the side of your screen, resulting in a small cutout instead of the character's body. 2. Apples spawned within the game : In the first version of the game there was a bug where the game would not spawn any apples if the game started with all apples already spawned. This was fixed in the latest version. 3. High score multiplier : The multiplier of the score was not displaying correctly in the previous versions. It now displays as you go from 0-4. Hello, dear game community, I'm very happy to release the first major update to AniEat. This update introduces two cool new features for all AniEat users! Improved control for snake fans Before I go into the details about the improvements I would like to first talk a bit about the background of the game. The concept of AniEat is to allow every player to play for free while also being able to play for money. This is achieved by allowing every player to create their own arena with a 500-1500 unit snake. These arenas are then rented to the player with the highest amount of money from a list of players who pay the most money. The more money the player pays, the more points they get and the more battle level the arena is upgraded. This was an intuitive system and I hoped that everyone would enjoy it, but unfortunately, many people had trouble learning how to play the game properly. Today I have released a new version of AniEat with two new features. The first feature is a "focus mode". This is the most important mode change. This new mode is very simple: Your snake is now "stuck" to the left and right side of the screen. You can "eat" any apple that comes to you, but you must stay between the left and right edge of the screen. At the same time, you can also “pursue” an apple with the left or right arrow key, and hopefully eat it. These two things combined should allow the player to learn quickly how to play the game. In addition, if you
