Q: How to find the dimension of a subspace from a basis

How to find the dimension of a subspace from a basis? Consider $V = \mathbb{R}^4$ with basis $B = \{(1,0,0,0), (0,1,0,0), (1,0,1,0), (1,0,0,1)\}$ I'm just wondering which one is the basis of this V and how to compute the dimension of V from this basis?

A: You have a basis for your vector space \mathbb{R}^4 that is $\begin{bmatrix} 1 & 0 & 0 & 0 \\ 0 & 1 & 0 & 0 \\ 1 & 0 & 1 & 0 \\ 1 & 0 & 0 & 1 \end{bmatrix}$

From here, it is a simple matter of counting the number of different vectors you have in your basis. In order to compute the dimension, it is simply enough to compute the number of columns and then divide by the number of rows. To compute $D(V)$, i.e., the dimension of the subspace V we have in this problem:

$$D(V) = \frac{3}{4} = 0.75$$

You can find the dimension of the vectors directly in the basis vectors, with the aid of the Matrix Representation property, i.e.,

$$\begin{bmatrix} 1 & 0 & 0 & 0 \\ 0 & 1 & 0 & 0 \\ 1 & 0 & 1 & 0 \\ 1 & 0 & 0 & 1 \end{bmatrix}$$

For the first time in franchise history, FIFA's ball physics and player movement have been completely rebuilt to deliver a completely immersive and authentic football experience. First-person camera view also makes it feel like you're standing on the pitch with your friends.

New Player Development System This new system allows players to learn and improve their own game with IntelliSense™ by analysing their own and their teammates' movements, while also getting feedback from their coach to get better and improve their game.

Evolution of New Engines for all Play Modes: These engines bring the new player development system into action with more ball physics, player intelligence, better ball movement, contextual controls and more. The result is every game feeling more dynamic and authentic than ever before.

Every Club in Every Play Mode: The total number of licensed players and teams available in this year's game has been increased to include more than 800 clubs from all over the world.

What's New in FIFA 22? FIFA 22 introduces a brand-new playbook and the introduction of Pro-Active AI technology for the first time in a FIFA title. By working collaboratively, the AI can anticipate your actions and manipulate the match situations to your team's advantage. For example, if the computer AI sees your strikers trying to dribble down the wings, it might send a defender to block the run. This key technology brings greater complexity and intelligence to the overall gameplay experience, giving players the most authentic football gameplay of any FIFA game.

A Complete Team of the Match Features: This year, the new team of the match stats feature in all five play modes has been expanded to include fitness levels, team quality, tactics used and more, making you even more informed and prepared for the most intense football matches.

Pro-Active AI: Pro-Active AI is the best technology in the industry, allowing the AI to predict the right move at the right time to keep the players in the game, and ensure that every match has a unique outcome. AI can also keep track of where your players are on the pitch so that your goals, assists, and completed dribbles are always accurate. New Play Mode: FIFA fans can enjoy the most popular mode, online seasons, in new ways. Standard online seasons and online leagues feature the most comprehensive set of improvements, features, and rewards in FIFA bc9d6d6daa
