“Using motion capture technology, we have been able to capture and simulate key player actions throughout a match,” said Albert Riera, FIFA Lead Match Developer. “The new animations in FIFA 22 are more fluid, accurate and responsive, and use our new player model to allow for an even more realistic representation of players on the pitch.” “The key feedback we got from fans was that the new animations looked great, but that the overall fluidity and responsiveness was lacking.” Albert added. “So we got to work to rework how the animation system and movements work, and it’s paying off with more fluid, responsive animations.”

New No-Veto Call Option The new no-Veto option will be available in 11 new UEFA Champions League features, including three new UEFA Champions League modes: UEFA Super Cup, UEFA Europa League and UEFA Champions League Knock-Out. Players can now make a no-Veto call during the two-minute build up period before the set piece in UEFA Champions League and UEFA Europa League games. UEFA Champions League - Dr Who When a player scores a goal, fans can shout the name of the player involved. This feature will be available when EA SPORTS introduces its new “Star Power” rating system for Player Ratings for UEFA Champions League and UEFA Europa League games. “Dr Who,” will be available in UEFA Champions League and UEFA Europa League for the first time in the history of the FIFA game. Blow-up Effect The “Blow-up Effect” is a new player animation feature that appears to blow up the player when he scores a goal, and when a player is fouled by a defender the player shoots up as he lands. This new animation will be available in FIFA 22. Dynamic Free Kick System The Dynamic Free Kick System introduces three key innovations in FIFA 22: * An “Sudden Death” free kick has a new 3-vs-3 system where the free kick is awarded to one of three teams. If the free kick system is activated by any of three teams, the other two will receive a penalty kick. * A “New Zones” feature gives the goalkeeper an extra-cushion for saves in the penalty box. A goalkeeper can save a penalty kick from 10 yards

AJ (Antoine Janvier) Joshi AJ, a promising young football professional, is currently working as a goalkeeping coach in France, but dream of spending his career doing what he loves – playing and coaching the beautiful game. His love affair with football began when he took a trip with his family to Cape Town to watch the 2010 FIFA World Cup. The excitement of watching the games and enjoying the atmosphere helped him to fall in love with football, and he began to train seriously after experiencing the real-time character of football and the camaraderie surrounding the game. In 2011, he moved to Tampa, Florida for the US to further his career. He worked for Lion Sports Inc., a top-level firm in the field of sports coaching, while attending events and helping to develop youth education systems through Boys and Girls Clubs across North America. He also contributed with the Tampa Bay Rowdies in the North American Soccer League. As a professional player, he has played for multi-national club teams in England and the Netherlands, including Stoke City FC, FC London, Queens Park Rangers and Boreham Wood FC. He has represented his native country of France at every level from Under-16 to Under-23, and has the distinction of being voted best goalkeeper in France at the Under-21 level. In March 2013, he decided to change his coaching career and pursue a career as a football goalkeeper. AJ received his coaching
