Q: How to handle a question about bad smell of bleach? The question in question: Is it ok to use bleach for bleach splash to preserve bacteria? The user in question felt the smell of the bleach made him lose his appetite. I handled the question in these ways: Nothing happened. I felt like I should have advised the OP to put the bleach in a sealed container to mask the smell. I downvoted the question, but the downvote never stayed around long enough to register. I posted on meta about it, and it was declined. I then tried flagging for moderator attention, and the declined flag stayed around long enough for me to flag again. After trying a few times I gave up. My question: How do you handle a question like this? I've had very little experience with such questions, so I'm asking to learn from the more experienced. A: You've done everything right. All 3 answers up-voted, down-voted, meta-posted, flag-raised, and moderator attention-raised. When nothing happens, you should give up on the problem. The next step would be to explain the problem to the user, a moderator can help with this. In general, you shouldn't step-in or even tell other users to handle questions that the policies don't address. You should limit your scope to questions that have an off-topic or poor quality tag; otherwise, you'll just end up wasting your time and the community's.

Features Key:

- 3D celebration celebrations from the pitch to the stands with all-new RealBall Physics. Get ready for the most authentic suite of animated celebrations on PlayStation 4. RealBall Physics now brings you full 360-degrees of celebration animation - further enhancing the experience of these celebrations. Whiplash neck cramps are also a thing of the past as we continue to fine-tune the ball physics, field workflows and tackles to create fans' favourite animations in a realistic and immersive way.
- 4K makes all the difference. Powered by Twinfluence's latest-generation P2 toolkit, FIFA 22 delivers both stunning visual fidelity and incredibly authentic gameplay. New texturing and shading techniques give players' feet, gloves and hair the vivid, quality smoothness and softness they deserve while texturing and shading are directly integrated into the character models themselves. The team also enabled real-time ray-tracing on real-world faces to bring a stunning visual experience to the Ultimate Team community.
- Customize to infinity with ChangeKit and match editors. With the ability to directly inject 3D objects into playable content, we're able to create entire props and by reaching this milestone, we're also able to create the first real-world (not from the studio or CG team) stadium, the Bepi Arena, dedicated to the FIFA World Cup. This will open doors to endless creation possibilities.
- Remote Play. With Remote Play, you can now stream games, spectate from the Premier League or The Indian Super League or create your own VOD of custom content and still be able to control your PS4 from your mobile device.
- New camera view. Take a closer look into the challenges of this year's Jules Rimet Trophy with the new camera view. Access new angles with new camera workflows and more control over camera movement. Allowing you to see your challenges from a new position gives you unprecedented perspective and control when playing.
