

---

The size of file is huge ( 2.5M) so I can not load it to this forum. I tried to upload manually, but it was rejected because of the limits of SFTP. Here is the download link for you : Download this file manually A: It's a direct download link. This article originally appeared on Alternet. One thing I've learned about feminism is that it's all about women defining things and other women being pissed about it. If you're a guy, you get to suggest, you get to propose, you get to offer up solutions to the problems women face, but when women get pissed off they want to destroy the patriarchy. So to remedy that, I'm going to list the problems that men face. We have a massive gun culture. We have a massive gun culture. We have a massive gun culture and we don't enforce the law when it comes to gun control. We have a massive gun culture and it's better for us that it's unregulated. If we had better regulation, it would make us safer. However, the women who scream the loudest on the subject of gun control - and this is every other week of every month - are the ones who don't want any regulation at all. They don't want any regulation at all. If they have their way, we are going to have a wild west where everything gets shot up. And that's not a safe place to live. We live in a militarized society that treats us like animals. The police are the military. Our cops are trained to treat us like animals. In fact, many of them are more animalistic than you and me. The military is the perfect model for us to follow. Get them in uniform and you have trained them to believe that they are the warriors, that the people who they are killing are the enemy. The women who get pissed off about the NFL's treatment of the black community, they miss the fact that the military works and feels the same way. They have trained us to believe that the other is the enemy. So if the other is the enemy, it's easier

