Incumbent President Theodore Roosevelt had been reelected for a second term, defeating his only primary challenger William Howard Taft and choosing as his running mate Thomas R. Marshall. Roosevelt and Taft won five of the nine states that were won by Roosevelt in 1904; only Utah voted for William Jennings Bryan, the candidate of the previous election. Republican candidate William Howard Taft won the largest share of the vote, albeit with an overall loss in the state, winning every county except for Navajo, Kayenta and San Juan. However, only 5.4% of the state's eligible voters participated in this election; by the next election in 1912, this percentage had increased to 16.4%. The only popular vote for a non-Republican came in Navajo County, where Bryan finished fifth. Roosevelt was re-elected with 83.1% of the vote in the other county. Cedar Strip county is not included in this table, being the first to proclaim itself as a separate political entity.
