when the report contains multi-page data or data that updates frequently, you can generate pdf documents that can be extracted to create new reports. the report designer can be used to create a document structure for your report from within the ide. it is highly configurable and lets you set your own page size, crop borders, alignment, and scale factors. if you need to calculate a ratio between two percentages, a new chart control enables you to create, print, or display the resulting percentage. for example, to show the ratio between the sales and the time spent on a project, you can define two percentage objects in the designer. the designer generates the objects and the report itself, so you do not need to use a third-party tool to perform the calculation. the controlskinsystems.xml file for a form controls cannot exceed the file limit for .net framework application (32 kb). when the file contains a large number of skin parts, you can set the minimum and maximum value of the skinpart property. the files are saved to the user's folder of the application. a-quest is a creative
