it's the new naming convention for adobe products. some customers are experiencing a delayed registration of acrobat when reinstalling or upgrading. there's nothing you can do about it. don't be frustrated. take your time and complete the registration process in the shortest amount of time possible. with the october 2018 update, versions of creative cloud and document cloud are only available if deployed via named user licensing. on november 30, 2019, many customers will also be affected by expiring serial numbers. to avoid interruption and to access the latest versions of the apps, customers must migrate to named user licensing. for more detail, see the announcement.

1. with frl, the software is supplied with a digital certificate (certificate of compliance). this license is not assigned to an individual user but instead to a group and is only valid for a specific group. the group license is assigned to a limited group of users and is not valid for users outside of that group.
2. the software must be installed on computers within a corporate network that are assigned to the group. users can be assigned to groups either via active directory groups or via self-selected computers. active directory users can be added to frl groups via a group policy setting. at the time of release of the product, you can download a pkcs #12 certificate signing certificate from the admin console. the certificate is generated by adobe and is for frl and named user licenses. the certificates are shipped as an.acrl file and expire at the end of the term. you can download the android and ios apps from google and apple's app store respectively. a default account is created and assigned to the app. this account is the same as the one used for the adobe id used for online service access. this is the same account used for all other service-enabled products. note the following:
